Here and There.

I see by your advertisement that we are to have something interesting in the way of a lecture with picture slides on Tuesday next. I understand that Archdeacon Hogbin will talk of his many and varied experiences of life in the north of the north-western Canada, and as he has been a great year or two travelling about all over the province, and is by no means narrow minded we should hear something worth listening to, so don't forget the date, and mind you are there in good time to get a good seat.

I notice that Mr. Becker has moved his furniture, etc., down to his place in the cooler. Anyone wanting a nice house should buck up for their's your chance.

The Stork has been busy in Justice Avenue, good luck to Paw and Mrs. Morrow, for sure Freddie is a most fortunate little fellow. By the way, we kids are a bit of a nuisance at times, but we do help to educate our parents and keep things lively for them.

We had a dandy time at the last Patriotic dance on Friday last, although not quite so many as usual were present; which I expect has to be accounted for by the fact that we are in Lent. We were more evenly divided, however, and there was no sitting out.

I wonder if the Fire Chief has time one of these nights, when it is dark, just to go around and look at the back lanes, say starting from the tin shop, then the wood room, then up the lane west, and just see how many hay racks and other kinds of vehicles he can find. I counted six a few nights ago. In case of a fire this would be a serious matter, as it is most important that no obstruction should be in the way to prevent the firemen getting to an outbreak as quick as possible, and the engines are not so easily steered about.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McLeod entertained the Rev. J. Dingle last week end. I hear the minister preached a great sermon on the subject of Church attendance and the many excuses we are all apt to make about putting in an appearance.

Quite a bunch of khaki boys came to spend the week-end with their Crossfield friends.

Frank Ruddy spent the week end at home resting after his hard work at Calgary, by love plowing is child's play to the work they do in town.

Paw went to hear the trial at the Police Court on Monday night, what a crowd, there are always a great many attracted into the room. What an attraction a case seems to have, it is a pity a small charge cannot be made for admission. Geo. Stone was the defendant, charged with assault and for stealing a wagon and load of firewood. He certainly seems, by the evidence, to be a some fighter but guess as the case is sent for trial at Calgary I must not make any remarks about it, except to repeat that the learned J. P. said that the evidence of Mr. Coggan and Mr. McNichol was given in the most clear and convincing manner.

I hear that Charles is the attraction at Messrs. Laut's Stores, the other stores will have to be finding counter attractions I don't know if this is a move on the part of Laut's to compete with the new man at Messrs. McRory's.

Revival Among The Soldiers

Scenes Among the Troops

A remarkable Bible revival is in progress among the British soldiers quartered on Salisbury Plain and elsewhere in England. Already more than 16,000 of the troops on Salisbury Plain alone have joined the Pocket Testament League, and are spending their time carrying a Testament with them and to read a chapter daily, and over 3,000 have declared their acceptance of Christ and enlisted under the banner of the King of Kings.

The movement began some time ago, when Charles M. Alexander, a well-known Christian soldier, accompanied by two soldiers, a pianist, and a representative of the Pocket Testament League, spent five days travelling from the Y.M.C.A. headquarters to another on the Plain, holding gospel meetings. From the beginning the movement has been a great success. The soldiers crowded into the marqueses, and when the tents were filled, they lay down the sides and the men stood in the mud to hear the services.

The meetings began with the presentation to each soldier of the Pocket Testament edition of the Gospel of St. John, containing some pictures and stories. Using the gospel as a hymn book, Mr. Alexander led the men in singing some of the hymns. The hymns quickly caught up the new choruses, such as "I Am Included" and "Good-bye, God Bless You." While the meetings were in progress, the strains of the "Glory Song" and "Tell 'em 'I'll be there." Now and then the famous song leader called upon the men to sing a hymn, such as "My Mother's Prayer," or "Will the Circle be Unbroken?" Again Mr. Alexander would stop the meetings from time to time and give them a straight talk on the mainness of living a clean Christian life.

At the opportune moment the idea of the Pocket Testament League was explained, and the men were told how during the last six years the movement had swept round the world, and how it had been enrolled in the army from one end of the world to the other had been enrolled in the League by 1,000,000 men. It was agreed to carry a Testament with them and to read at least one chapter daily. Special Testaments with water-proof covers and a leather binding were supplied by the Pocket Testament League Headquarters, 47 Paternoster Row, London, were offered to any soldier who wished to accept them. It was agreed, however, that in order to secure the Testaments, the men must first secure a membership card, and then sign the pledge in the Testament.

The eagerness of the men to make the pocket Testaments a part of the movement was astonishing. At one time, when those who wished to become members were asked to come forward, the soldiers in the marqueses, in their eagerness to join. At another tent over 300 soldiers were enrolled in the League. The meetings were not there was not time to give out the Testaments that night, so the men were asked to present them the next morning. The next morning, at the marqueses corner the next day, early the following morning a stream of soldiers, asking for Testaments, gave and continued until thousands of them had been enrolled in that manner.

During the closing days of the meetings conducted by Mr. Alexander scenes were witnessed as the soldiers were asked not only to join the League, but to yield their lives to God. On one night over a thousand men were crowded into a tent. Over 300 joined the Pocket Testament League, and at the end of the meeting, 192 soldiers in the presence of their comrades, rang out after the sonorous leader the words "I accept Christ as my Saviour, and I give my life to God. Give to the brethren from the Hebrews 11:21. Believe me, yours always, J. T. Alexander." The Rev. Mr. K. H. Smith, editor of a London journal who was present declared it was a sight he had rarely seen equal.

Mr. Alexander, the Canadian chaplain of the forces, when asked for a word of encouragement to the men whose lives have been in his hands, said: "I rejoice to hear the blessing received on the Plain. May you see greater things than these before you. Give to the brethren from the Hebrews 11:21. Believe me, yours always, J. T. Alexander."

Later Dr. W. Wilbur Chapman arrived in England from America, and he and Mr. Alexander conducted two brief meetings in the same marqueses.

At their conclusion, at the urgent request of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A., the evangelist held the thrilling meetings with soldiers in the Crystal Palace and Wembley, when as the result of the inspiring message in his sermon, "Give to the Saviour," the troops stood up and openly confessed Christ as their Saviour.

The Bible revival on Salisbury Plain did not end with the visit of Mr. Alexander and his party. The movement continued to spread among the men from tent to tent, and the demand for Testaments increased.

Mr. Henry J. Lane, a business man who has worked day and night in one of the tents, has had a visit to the Plain as an honorary worker enrolling soldiers in the League, and leading them to a decision for God, sent to the American headquarters a letter giving a graphic account of the Bible revival among the troops. He writes:

"After a visit from Mr. Alexander, the men, the Lord manifested His blessing in a remarkable way. Until then, he had had few occasions for Christ, sometimes one and never more than two a day. After the above mentioned visit and the introduction of the Pocket Testament league, there came upon the soldiers a great desire to hear the Word of God. As it was told out men were gripped by the power of the Holy Ghost, and after that they came to the country with bibles and confessed Christ. On one occasion a group of 30 were listening to the gospel and singing hymns. One young man and another who are now in bitter conflict will be co-operating once more in the service of humanity. The writer of this, a young caveman, and with and prayers offered, than another group came forward. Thus it continued until the men had sounded the shrill bugle call to arms.

A few weeks is the time the soldiers have aroused such widespread interest that Mr. Lane and Mr. A. C. J. Thomas, who has witnessed an almost complete conversion in a neighboring Y.M.C.A. meeting, were invited to London to tell about the spiritual movement among the troops.

To a group of editors of London journals who had gathered to hear the story, Mr. Lane told how the work of the League was spreading rapidly on the morale of the troops. He said: "For weeks we have had a stream of men coming to join the Pocket Testament League, and in accepting Christ so rapidly, that I could not deal with them in ones or two, but had to deal with eight or nine at a time. This has been done in the tent while the tent was being set up, and the three men who were there found suddenly a strange case and comfort, and began to talk of their sins and their home. But when the three the end was near, and when the French officer ceased to write, the French two had drawn out longer obituaries than any I ever omitted. So the three men died comforted and helping one another."

The story is a parable for mankind, and the League is a parable for war. Our duty to our country, to God and to civilization imposes upon us a brutal and horrible task.

"A merchant of Exeter was there in the tent, and he said, 'I also, the West Countryman. This is the first time I have been at the back where I could not see at them just to see what was taking place.' The merchant said that he had been in a boat house, and from the lips of anyone, I would have no other sound of voice to be heard."

The Council adjourned at the call of the Reeve.

A few remarks on the needs of caring for straw and stock food, I feel is worthy of our consideration. The district has taken a decided step in the raising of stock, which necessitates more action in stacking straw, feeding it and feeding in the best possible condition.

I have noticed quite a change in the last seven years in the length of the straw from continual cropping, and the depletion of humus for the want of feeding it on the land.

I have seen heavy losses in Ontario in my younger days for want of taking care of straw.

On the 15th, we pay $5.00 a load in Washington for dry straw and hay it takes several miles to feed working horses. Many prudent farmers there make their straw into hay.

My recent trip through the dry parts of the Province and Montana, also Washington show the need of this, so that people may be prepared to save their straw when drought and a shortage of feed overcomes them.—THOS. FITZGERALD.
